In addition to the donors listed above, the American Farm School is grateful for the endowed gifts, bequests and other forms of planned giving received from its friends around the world.

Contributions to the Farm School are used in large part to provide scholarships for its students. Each student is required to pay one half of his/her room and board costs, but this leaves a balance of $3500 per scholarship to be met by the Farm School for the 1980-81 year.

Academic Year Underway

Students Martha Simionidou, Maria Avrami, Panayiotis Zacharelis, George Hatzigeorgiou gather near Princeton Hall.

With the advent of Fall, the American Farm School is again in full operation. 200 students arrived at the School on September 20th and 21st from villages all over Greece, with a majority from Northern Greece. Of the 200 students, 50 again are girls.

Prior to the students' arrival, there were several staff meetings and discussions concerning new directions and plans for handling all aspects of the students' lives at the Farm School. The most exciting of these new plans has to do with the Practical Instruction Program for First-Year Lyceum students.

In the afternoons after classes all of the students participate in the Practical Instruction Program. During this time, they work on special projects such as pig raising, vegetable gardening, and farm machinery, which gives them the opportunity to put what they have learned in theory to practical use. This program follows a type of American 4-H model with the students responsible for all aspects of their projects: management, bookkeeping and sales, as well as actual production and maintenance.

Although students do not specialize academically until their third year, the Practical Instruction Program gives them an opportunity to start developing and concentrating their skills from the very beginning. Much of the educational success of the Farm School is a result of this unique combination of theory and practice.

Educators in the Practical Instruction Program have devised a new three month orientation and basic career counselling program for First Year Lyceum students. The main objective of this new program is to enable students to develop a broad understanding of the following specialty areas: horticulture, farm machinery, animal production and rural economics and management. The term "broad understanding" includes:

- a) characteristics of the specialty area at the Farm School,
- b) characteristics of the specialty area in Greece, including scope, trends, supply and demand for products or service personnel,

c) characteristics of employment conditions from lowest level to highest level,

d) training required at various levels of employment, and

e) employment opportunities. To facilitate this program, the class will be divided into four groups. Each group will spend two hours with the manager of each specialty area. The manager will lead the groups on a tour of the facilities and will also describe the aforementioned employment aspects of his area. Following these information sessions, each student will be expected to perform two hours of "hands-on" experience at the unskilled level in each specialty area.

This combination of "broad understanding" and "hands-on" experience should enable the First Year students to more intelligently choose their farm business management projects and also their specialty major.

Right now spirits are high and all of us, staff and students alike, are eagerly making the best of this new year!

JAMES R. MAXWELL IV, GS '72

James R. Maxwell IV, a GREEK SUMMER participant from Cincinnati in 1972, died on September 11 as a result of spinal injuries suffered days earlier in a benefit rugby match in Springfield, Massachusetts.

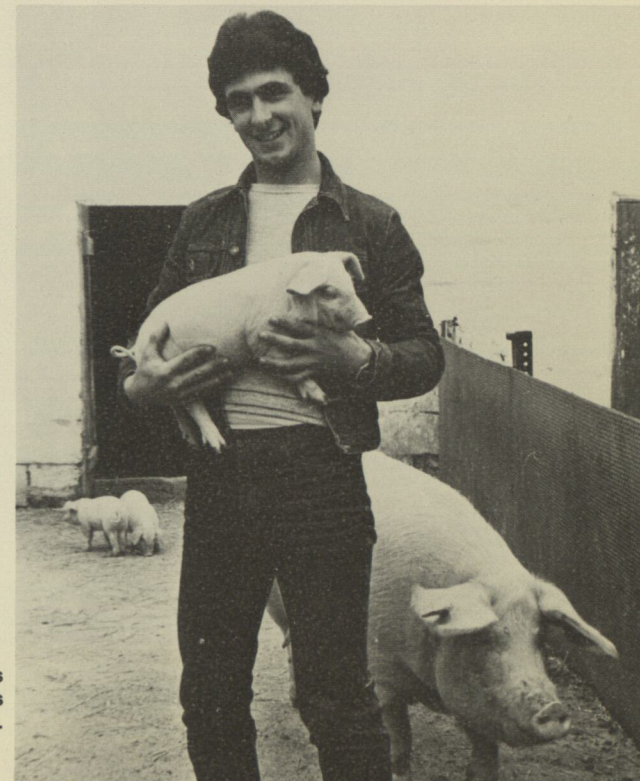

The exhibition match was one of several that Jim had participated in for the benefit of a home for handicapped children. Since his GREEK SUMMER experience at the American Farm School, Jim and his family have maintained a close relationship with the School. Jim and his parents were active in the Cincinnati Committee of the Farm School and Jim's brother Cliff participated in GREEK SUMMER in 1977.

Jim's fine character and clear concern for others will be greatly missed by his many friends in the Farm School family. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell have asked to add that as parents they felt Jim developed his enviable quality of "sheer determination" largely from his GREEK SUMMER experience.

New SUMMER WORK PROGRAM a Great Success

Nine college students from the United States, England, and Holland teamed up to make a great success out of the Farm School's first "Summer Work Program." For eight weeks, the participants worked on improving the campus in a variety of ways while enjoying field trips and the Greek sunshine.

Participants from the United States included: Maria Applewhite of Washington, D.C.; Peter Cornuelle of San Francisco; Sally Seggerman of New York City. From England, Kostas Zambonakis joined the group. The Dutch participants were: Jelte Albada, Sophia Dryer, Clementina Geldos, and Gerrit Evert. Nick Theoharides, who grew up on the Farm School campus and now resides in Santa Cruz, served as the group leader.

Director Bruce Lansdale defined the goals of the new Work Program as follows:

- to meet the work needs of the Farm School during the summer months.

- to provide a combination of work and training experience for the participants at the Farm School.

- to provide the participants with an opportunity to get to know both the culture and the agricultural technology of Greece.

- to provide the participants with an opportunity to become involved in the goals and aspirations of the Farm School and its various activities.

The success of the first Summer Work Program means that we hope to gather an equally energetic and committed group next summer. Greek Summer alums and others who would like to volunteer are encouraged to write to the School.

Peter Cornuelle performs one of the many tasks of the work program.

Maria Applewhite helps the Farm School save energy by installing insulation.
